THE EPIDEMIC OF SIX

Cases of Yellow-Fever, Many of which are Considered Doubtful by Leading Physicians, Collapsed, "Done Gone and Played Out"-Reason Resumes Her Sway.

Everybody Elated with Hope-An Epidemic Now Considered Improbable -Not a Single New Case Developed from the Six Sporadics-Dr. Frayser's Views.

The stampede is over. People who were badly scattered last Thursday, and were ready to take the first train and flee northward, now feel reassured and have become calm and sensible. The alarmists and sensationalists find their occupation gone, and they have but little to say on the subject of pidemics for the present. Three or four thousand people, principally women and children, have gone. This is as it should be, but there is no necessity for any other wild stampede. Many merchants are now doing a beavy business; indeed the summer business was never so good as at present. Our reporter was buttonholed, questioned and cross-examined a thousand or more times yesterday. He was not only invited to give facts, but to decide rumors and give his opinion on speculative surmises. He stated as often as asked the following facts: There have been but six cases of recognized yellow-fever in the city. Mr. Mulbrandon, Judge assertment, and more reading for the money at Mansford's, 298 Main street, than elsewhere.

—Last evening was the occasion of the lever in the city. Mr. Mulbrandon, Judge Ray and his two sons, Mr. Tobin and wife. Of these Mr. Mulbrandon, Mr. Tobin and one of Judge Ray's sons died. Judge Ray and son and Mrs. Tobin are in a very critical presentation of a ker of Lemp's St. Louis condition, with but little hope existing as to lager to the workmen engaged on the "Improvement of the Memphis River Front," by cases reported to the board of health lager to the workmen engaged on the "Improvement of the Memphis River Front," by their popular superintendent, Captain Burney. The boys took the flamy beverage heartily, with three cheers for Uncle Sam and their "bosses." ed to the board of health, it will at once be published in the APPEAL, with all the facts that can be discovered concerning the case. Our reporter declined to consider rumors or ensational stories, and refused to solve conundrums. Last evening the condition of Judge Ray, his son and Mrs. Tobin had not improved; they were in an extremely critical —Billy Lieben's is the place to get your Sunday reading matter. He will wait on you and supply you with all you want. Billy is not going away. He says there is no Yellow-Jack here. He has Godey, Leslie's Sunday Jack here. He has Godey, Leslie's Sunday time by inland towns and by cities created no little indignation among our citizens, it being condition. The fact that no new cases have a causeless measure and one calculated to inflict heavy losses on business. The Tobin place, on Bradford street, is more than a mile and a quarter northeast of Court square; the Ray place, on Wellington street, near Hernaudo road, is a mile and a southeast of Court square, and Mulbrandon residence, on Desoto treet is about a mile south of Court square. The fever is confined to these residences, and has not spread a foot outside of either prem-This proves that the fever is not an epidemic, but peculiarly sporadic. Whenever Louis to Vicksburg, owing to the quarantine at Vicksburg, would not make a landing at this port. The passengers and freight for this port were put off at Hopefield, Arkansas, and sent over in barges.

At half-past ten o'clock last night General ordon sent a note to the APPEAL office, "There is not much change in the ondition of either the judge or Eddie Ray since five o'clock this evening, certainly none for the worse. We hope both are a little better. All is being done that good nursing can accomplish.

The APPEAL yellow-fever expert of "castron" astuteness, visited the office of Drs. Frayser and Henning, on Adams street, bent on interviewing the senior member of the firm. A hollow echo was all we heard in response to a gentle rap on the door, which being open we ventured in. Everything looked neat and orderly, evidencing system even in the minute details of keeping a doctor's office spoke volumes. Neither one of the gentlemen was present. Over a desk hung two of the traditional order slates, on one of which was written: "Dr. Frayser at home; othing to do." Oa the other was a call for Dr. Henning to attend a child. From the office we wended our way to Dr. Frayser's residence, No. 104 Union street. We found the venerable but good looking doctor enjoying his toothpick on his front porch. introducing ourself we were cordially re-ceived, when we forthwith began to interview aim on the present condition of affairs.

Reporter-Dr. Frayser, I have called to inerview you on the yellow-fever business. Dr. Frayser-What? Reporter-The readers of the APPEAL would be pleased to know through the medium of an interview your candid opinion on the subject of yellow-fever, its alleged present existence in this city, whether sporadic, genative or otherwise? Dr. F .- Well, sir; I don't believe it would do any good (rather excitedly). The people won't believe anything I say about it. It's all wrong. It ain't worth while to print anything I say. Reporter-The APPEAL, doctor, begs leave to differ with you, as it places a very high value on your professional opinions.

Dr. F.—Well, sir, proceed.
Reporter—How long have you resided in Memphis, doctor? Dr. F .- About forty years, sir; about forty Reporter-Have you ever practiced your rofession in Memphis during the existence of a yellow-fever epidemic?

Dr. F.—Only four, sir. The first one in back and neuralgia. Price fifty cents a bottle. W. N. Wilkerson & Co. and G. W. 1867, 1873 and 1878. Reporter-It is reasonable to suppose then, doctor, that you know a case of yellow-feve when you see it. Dr. F .- I have given the disease a ver careful study, sir; very close study, and I feel prepared to recognize a case when I see it I will say that I have not recognized one in this city this season. Reporter-Have you seen any of the cases about which there seems to be so much doubt in the minds of the physicians of the Dr. F .- I have not, sir. I did intend visiting Tobin and his wife, but something interened and I did not go. Reporter—Do you know anything of the character of Mulbrandon and Tobin, who are reported to have died of yellow-fever during this week?

Dr. F.—I know nothing personally, but have heard that both were hard-drinking men, and that Tobia was taken sick just after

Reporter-Doctor, it is said that these two men threw up black vomit, are there any other diseases than yellow-fever where black Dr. F.-O, yes sir; patients affected with congestion or inflammation of the stomach hrow up a dark liquid very much resembling he black vomit of yellow-fever patients, but there is a difference

Reporter-Is that difference readily dis-Dr. F.—In some, very many, cases the difference is not easily distinguished. In fact, it would take an expert to distinguish between the two. Reporter-Are there not some symptoms attending yellow-fever that are never developed in other fevers?

Dr F .- There certainly are. -Read the resolutions with reference to thus securing to each shareholder superior unarantine adopted at the chamber of com- advantages and profits, not possible in any the wide difference of opinion prevailing even among the prominent physicians of the city Dr. F .- I can account for it in no other way than that the nature of the disease has not been properly studied, and there is evidently ignorance on the part of one or the other of the opposing opinions.

Reporter—I understood you to say that you have not seen any yellow-fever or anything esembling it?
Dr. F.—I have not seen a case of yellowfever, or anything resembling that disease, ince last November. Reporter-And you do not believe a case has appeared here during the past twenty fare. Ample accommodations at low rates. Dr. F.-I cannot answer that question, be cause, as I told you, I have not visited any of the cases reported to be yellow-fever. Reporter .- You could tell a case-a sporadic case, for instance—if you were to see

Dr. F .- I believe I could, sir. Reporter .- Before he had thrown up the ago, would there not have been developed by this time symptoms of its epidemic form? Dr. F.—The prevailing hot weather would have propagated the disease, provided other conditions were favorable.

Reporter—What other conditions, doctor? Dr. F.-Well, sir, having been a close observer of yellow-fever epidemics in this lati-tude, I have observed it as a rule in all precedents that yellow-fever always casts its shadow before. The beginning of the warm seasons of the year, attended by these visitations there always comes up a general com-plaint of sickness, particularly from the low marshy country round about us. Every one you see wears a greenish yellow complexion; chills and fever prevail.

Reporter—But, doctor, those I understand to be of malarial origin, and you doctors have taught me to believe that yellow-fever has little or no malarial attendants, but is a specific disease—specific_blood poisor, I believe, is the term used. Dr. F .- You are correct as far as you go, but I have noticed in yellow-fever epidemic seasons these malarial diseases are forerun-ners of the yellow-fever, and when the latter makes its appearance all other fevers and diseases are absorbed by it. You will remember last year there were more or less malarial attendants in nearly every case of fever. But, as I was saying, I have noticed that the present spring and summer months have been unusually healthy, there being very little tendency to malarial diseases, chills and fever and other complaints, which usually presage an epidemic. This fact is particularly noticeable round about Memphis. noticeable in the low lands Reporter-Then you do not apprehend an epidemic this season.

Dr. F.—I certainly do not, from this fact, and from the fact that out of four sporadic cases, alleged to have already occurred, not a single new case has appeared. No, sir, you need not fear an epidemic this year. On the contrary, you may safely look for as healthy a season as was ever enjoyed by this people. This is my candid conclusion, and I know of nothing existing at present to weaken that Reporter-Is hot weather always necessary for the propagation of yellow-fever infusoria?

Dr. F.—I do not believe in the infusoria theory, but I will answer your question by hot weather. A high temperature of atmosphere is necessary to induce the morbid condition of the human system to cause yellow-Reporter—What are the symptoms in yel-low-fever that are distinguishable which do

Dr. F.-It has, sir; and it is very sad to contemplate. Why, sir, I have never apprehended an epidemic visitation this year. Sporadic cases were probable, almost certain, but they amount to nothing. Do you know, sir, that in the summer of 1874, immediately presented by the epidemic of 1873. ly succeeding the epidemic of 1873, there occurred a number of sporadic cases-I know of more than forty myselfand there was no epidemic. In truth, hardly anybody knew anything about it. The board of health took the matter in hand, managed the cases quietly, made no imprudent publi cations, and nobody was hurt. I regret the present trouble. I might also say that had I been a member of the board of health I would have counseled a more mature delib-

of the APPEAL and its thousands of readers to morrow morning for your indulgence of me in my tiresome interview. Advice of an Experienced Physician.

EDITORS APPEAL-I have received many notes of inquiry, and many of my patients have called at my office with regard to the action they should take since the "yellow fever scare." As I cannot conveniently write each one, I address them through your valua-ble paper. My advice is: Remain in Memphis, keep out of the sun, live temperately and there is absolutely no danger. I have seen several cases of malarial fever, but nothing that I can distort into yellow-fever of even the mildest type. Memphis never was healthier than at the present time. Like several of my professional brethren with whom I have talked to-day, I find it "distressingly healthy."

JULY 12, 1879. No. 40 Madison street.

The Mulbraudon Case. EDITORS APPEAL .- In your issue of th twelfth I saw the report of an interview with Dr. Saunders, in which he stated that he learned from a source, to him usquestion-able, "We had been unpacking and airing furniture, clothing and bed-clothes; on the latter stains of black vomit were plainly visible." I have only to say that his informant told a willful falsehood, except possessed with an imagination vivid enough to mistake the black squares of a log-cabin quilt for the aforesaid substance, as it was the only article of bedding hung out to air previous to my brother-in-law's illness, as our neighbors can estify. Mrs. Mulbrandon has not used anything of our mother's, but my children and self are sleeping on beds and bed-clothes in which there had been fever, but they were thoroughly disinfected by washing, fumiga-tion and frost, and have found no bad effect from their use. In conclusion, I would ask why should not Mr. Mulbrandon contract the ever on his work bench, as I understand Judge Ray did on his judicial one? If Dr. Saunders had applied to me, as his brother physician did, I would have answered any questions willingly and truthfully.

Called Meeting of the Chamber of Con merce for the Purpose of Protesting Against the Unjust Quarantine Established Against Memphis by Arkansas and New Orleans.

Resolution of Protest Offered by Mr Jerome Hill Unanimously Adopted by the Meeting-Resolution Requesting the Observance of the National Board of Health Rules.

At half-past three o'clock a called meeting of the chamber of commerce was held at the cotton exchange-room. The object of the meeting was to take action with reference to the quarantine established against Memphis by other cities and towns. The attendance was quite large. Mr. A. B. Goodbar, vice-president of the chamber of commerce, called the meeting to order.

the meeting to order.

Judge J. R. Flippin stated the object of the meeting to be to take action against the hasty manner in which Memphis had been quarantined by the State board of health, the authorities of Arkansas, and by cities and towns. He thought the quarautine premature. The authorities here and the newspapers were pledged to publish the first case of fever occurring in our midst, and he thought they did right. He thought the neighboring towns and cities should exercise iscretion and judgment in establishing quar-

Mr. Jerome H:ll read a dispatch from A D. Langstaff, at Milan, Tennessee, stating the people along the line deeply sympathise with us, and that no quarantine will be es tablished against us until we have an endemic. Mr. Hill offered the following saying that yellow-fever cannot exist without RESOLUTION: Resolved, That the citizens and merchants of Mem-phis, in behalf of the trade of this city and of its citizens, regret the hasty and unjust action of the authorities of the State of Arkansas and of New Orleans and other clies, in proclaiming a quarantine against us in advance of any epidemic in this city.

Dr. F.—The most conspicuous is the fact that the temperature of the patient rises while the pulse or action of the blood goes down. In all other fevers the pulse quickens as the fever rises.

Reporter—This scare, doctor, has lost thousands of dollars to Memphis commerce?

Dr. F.—It has, sir; and it is very sad to health of Memphis has announced the first appearance of a few sporadic cases of yellow fever. The chances are that we will have no epidemic, and certainly there is no reason, at the present time, to prevent the most timid or prudent person from coming into and remaining in Memphis. There is surely no reason to apprehend any injection from citizens leaving or goods of any character going from this city. We need make no argument on this occasion. There have been no new cases for three days, according to the best information. There is no epidemic here of yellow-fever; therefore we most respectfully request the board of health of the State of Arkansas to send its own representative to this city to examine and report to the State authorities; and in the meantime we respectfully urge that the order of quarantine against Memphis be revoked.

A FREE DISCUSSION. Mr. J. M. Keating said that we had no right to object to New Orleans and Arkansas quarantining us, when our own State board eration upon the cases reported before I established quarantine against us. We would have consented to the publicity given ought to attend to those at home. The State the fever spreads in the above localities, then it will be time enough to consider it existing in an infectious and epidemic form. Yesterday the steamer City of Vicksburg, from St.

Reporter—Doctor, I will trespass upon Dr. Mitchell, a member of the national board of health, and members of our city board of of health, and members of our city board of or health, and members of our city board of or health, and members of our city board of health, and members of our city board established quarantine in the face of the fact that it had received information from purpose the fact that it had received for the face of the fact that it had received for health, and members of our city board of the fact that it had received for health, and members of our city board of the fact that it had received for health, and members of our city board of the fact that it had received for health, and members of our city board of the fact that it had received for health, and members of our city board of the fact that it had received for health, and members of our city board established quarantine in the face of the fact that it had received for health, and members of our city board established quarantine in the face of the fact that it had received for health, and members of our city board established quarantine in the face of the fact that it had received for health, and members of our city board established quarantine in the face of the fact that it had received for health, and members of our city board established quarantine in the face of the fact that it had received for health and the face of the fact that it had received for health and the face of the face of the fact that it had received for health and the face of the face of the face of the face demic in Memphis, and that sporadic cases of yellow-fever alone existed. He moved that the State board of health be included in the

Mr. Jerome Hill accepted the amendment. Mr. John Johnson thought the State board of health had only carried out the rules adopted by the Mississippi Valley sanitary so-cety, and he thought that the action of the State board of health was a protection and not a disadvantage. ANOTHER RESOLUTION.

Mr. J. M. Keating then offered the followrome Hill's resolution: WHEREAS, The city of Memphis has in all respects compiled with all the rules and regulations prescribed by the National board of health,

Recovered That Arkansas, New Orleans and other cities that have quarantined against us be requested to observe the rules and regulations suggested by the National board of health and adopted by the sanitary council of the Mississippi valley.

ADOPTION OF RESOLUTIONS Dr. R.W. Mitchell stated the rules and regulations of the National board of health and the objects for which they were intended. He gave a history of the first case occurring here this season, Mr. Mulbrandon, and was their duty to notify the different boards of health at once. The first case is not necessarily infectious, nor probably would be a half a dozen cases. When one person takes the fever from another then infection has occurred. It was not intended to enforce the rules and regulations of the National board of health until a place became dangerous infected, and Memphis had not become so. Colonel A. J. Kellar asked if Dr. Mitche indersed the spirit and sentiment of the res lutions offered. Mr. Jerome Hill.

The question of quarantine was discusse by Mr. Keating, Colonel Kellar, Colonel Prestidge and Dr. Mitchell. The latter said that the action so tar as taken by the State authorities was in strict conformity with the rules and regulations adopted by the National On motion of Colonel Prestidge, the original resolution offered by Mr. Jerome Hill was adopted, Mr. Kenting's resolution having been withdrawn for the present. Mr. Keating's resolution was then offered
